JUDGE M. J. LAIN STABBED

At a telephone meeting at the Wilson school house in the northeast part of the county Saturday night a dispute arose between Abe Lain, son of the county judge, and a man named Carson. It is said that Carson was endeavoring to use a knife, when the judge laterfered and was given a serious state below the short ribs by Carson.

the Courier has tried repeatedly to learn more by telephone the last time just before going to press Thursday afternoon-but has been unable to get the judge's home or that of any neighbor nearer than Mrs. McCart of Musselfork, who knew no more than is outlined above. arrests have been made.

LATER-A telephone message from Mrs. Win reports the Judge quite ill, but his injuries are not considered dangerous.

DEATH OF WILLIAM F. SASSE

Good Man Passes Away-Was Well Known and Highly Respected.

The death of Mr. Sasse, early Tuesday morning is universally regretted.

A native of Chariton county, and a man of strictest integrity, yesterday afternoon at the Methoattended. Rev. W. George preached the sermon. Burial was at the Dalton cemetery. A neighbor of Mr. Sasse-one who knew him best-has furnished the Courier the following sketch:

William - F. Sasse was born in Chariton county near Dalton, February 28, 1856, and died April 11, 1911, at his home on the Bowling Green prairie in this county.

Mr. Sasse was united to Amelia five daughters-are still living.

The deceased has left to those to his family, the priceless legacy of wise counsel. It can be said in showing his good works, according to his ability, toward those in Thus all will share exactly alike. need. As a farmer he truly loved his calling, and his efforts along this line were crowned with success in providing a comfortable and beautiful home for his

Within the sphere of spirtual life Mr. Sasse sought out that wisdom, the knowledge of a pardoning Saviour, which God above can give in Christ Jesus, in his youth, and became a member of the Lutheran church. According to his testimony upon nearing his departure from things jemporal to electral, he kept the faith that giveth knowledge of pardoning grace to those who are xereised thereby. - C. W. S.
